The Online Dating Survival Guide

Mail order brides do they still exist? You came to realizing the desire to try something new in your life, something that you have heard about but didn't dare to try, well let me answer some of the questions you might have. Of course I don't know exactly what you want to ask, so if you don't find the information that you need in this article, please feel free to contact me! Here we go!

1. What are those girls looking for? Well, most of Russian girls you see are looking for exactly the same thing as you are! They want to have a family, want to be happy, have kids and enjoy life. One thing they are interested right now, is a man from somewhere abroad.
2. Why such nice looking ladies can't find themselves a man in Ukraine or Russia? I must admit that there is fewer men than women in Ukraine, but this is just a part of the reason. Men here are so spoiled with the beauty of women, that they don't really value it a lot, so after couple of negative experiences with local men girls start to think that their soul mate does not have to live in the same city or even country. One more thing is that international and intercultural marriages have proved to be really strong. The difficulties that people must overcome makes their relationship better and there is always the process of learning about each other language, country and culture.
3. There is a girl who I like, what should I do? Just send her a letter or roses? How should I write the first letter? Congratulations! It's very important thing that you are about to do. As they say: There is just one chance to make the first impression, so you should carefully write the letter. What to mention in the first letter? Any general information of you that you would like to share with the lady. Such as your age, marital status, occupation, hobbies, favorite time spending and also express your interest to the personality of the lady. Try to make the letter as personal as possible. Asking questions will show her your interest in getting to know her, so ask questions! Concerning flowers and other gifts, girls love romantic men, you know that! Don't forget to attach your picture.
4. What if my correspondence will go very well and I decide to meet the Lady in person. What should I do? Do I need a visa to come to Ukraine? Going to Ukraine and meeting the girl(s) will be one of the most exciting experiences in your life. The Agency will ensure that your trip is well arranged and the meeting are scheduled in the convenient time. The initial meetings are usually not very long - 1,5 hour each. This way it's possible to meet all the ladies of interest within the few days and to concentrate on those ladies who you feel the most comfortable with. Meetings are one on one basis and take a place in some nice cafes or restaurants. You do not need a visa to enter Ukraine if you are a citizen of the USA.
5. If we decide to get married how do I bring her home? The process of bringing a lady in the country is different in all countries, but in the US it means applying for a K1 visa. The process of getting a visa takes from 6 to 9 months and requires lots of paperwork. But it's absolutely real to get a visa, be accurate with the documents and read carefully all the instructions. I hope I answered some of the questions you wanted to ask. As I said before, if you have more questions please go ahead and send them over to me! I will be happy to answer.

How To Be Safe With Online Dating There are many pitfalls, in the world of online dating and personals, never take a site's claims at face value, a site might boast several thousand members, but on closer inspection many of those members may not have been active in a week, a month, even a year. Many might have signed and never returned. There is also an increasing market in the world of online dating; where newly created dating sites agree with established sites to swap databases of membership profiles, purely to entice others to join; on joining to their surprise these new members may find that most of the people on the site will possibly never reply to their private message. There is also an underhand tactic being used on certain sites, where women are being recruited to simply keep the men happy, i.e pretend to be interested in them, and willing to continue to keep the embers burning, when in truth they have no interest, ut are being paid to pretend. So beware of that picture that just looks too good to be true, and incidentally is interested in you. Of course there is always the element of fraud, especially with any newly created dating site, fraudsters target these hoping the individuals are susceptible to their schemes, it usually follows the same pattern, people declaring their undying love for you, or they need your help to move large amounts of money, just make sure you send the remittance via western union, or any other untraceable e-currency. Remember to be safe than sorry, if you do eventually find someone online, always meet in a crowded public place, and never give out personal details to your potential suitor, until you have known them for a good while.

Dating World Online: All You Need To Know It seems like everyone is talking about on-line dating these days. Everyone has either a wonderful success story or the worst horror story in the world. If you are new to the world of Internet dating, you may be put off by the horror stories. However, the online dating world can also be a wonderful place to meet new people-even that "special someone." The only difference between "real" dating and on-line dating is the Internet. There are numerous online dating services available, catering to people of all ages, interests, demographics and various walks of life. The numbers of people who are participating in online dating services are on the rise. A recent study showed that approximately 1 out of 5 Americans have or do now participate in some form of an online dating service. More than ever before, young people are using the Internet as their main route to meet people. They see nothing shameful about this way of socializing. Plus, the anonymity that the online dating world provides can be appealing. The more reputable online dating services will require any potential members to sign a membership agreement (make sure you read this carefully before signing up). These sites have created a set of requirements that must be met before someone is allowed to participate. Most of these sites are also pay-sites. You may be able to have a free, but limited, membership-which may allow you to view profiles but not contact members. But this also allows the services to accept or reject aspiring members based on their requirements. If you do not already know, subscribers to online dating services are required to create a profile containing a picture and other information such as interests, hobbies, and other similar information. Most are also asked what type of person they would like to be contacted by. Subscribers also have a chance to express themselves and their personality as well as specify what they are looking for-whether social networking, friendship, or a romantic rendezvous. The subscribers are then matched with, or can search for, fellow subscribers who match their descriptions. Then it is up to the subscribers to pursue a connection with the other subscribers. Online dating services are designed to be simple to use. Anyone with Internet access (as close as a library card) and a credit card can take advantage of these services. With a simple click of a mouse, one can dive from a dating pool that is limited by location and familiarity into a dating pool that is practically infinite.

Student Health Insurance Maryland

This should be a bible for comprehensive peer leader training programs. It is a very helpful tool for those of us training peers to co-teach freshman seminars, providing both an intellectual and practical foundation.--John N. Gardner, senior fellow and distinguished professor emeritus, National Resource Center for the First-Year Experience and Students in Transition, University of South Carolina
Students Helping Students is a comprehensive, practical, and insightful guide to the essentials of effective peer education. It is must reading for any students involved in learning their roles as peer educators.--Charles C. Schroeder, vice chancellor for student affairs, University of Missouri-Columbia
It's about time higher education devoted more attention to developing the single most powerful group on campus: peers! From residence halls to health centers, this book offers useful skills and applications for peers helping peers. Special kudos for helping peer educators learn about intercultural competence and ethical practices.--Susan R. Komives, associate professor of College Student Personnel, University of Maryland, and former president, American College Personnel Association
This book is particularly relevant for student affairs professionals involved in training, especially for those working on campuses with culturally diverse student populations.--John O'Connell, vice president for student affairs, Richmond, The American International University in London
We know from an extensive body of research that college students develop cognitively and emotionally largely from their interactions with other students. Steve Ender and Fred Newton have translated that research evidence into a series of thoughtful interventions and strategies that will enhance the positive impacts of peer interactions. This is an important work that should be on the bookshelf of any student affairs professional.--Ernest

Dying Daylights

“œlf music be the food of love, play on; Give me excess of it!œ” (Shakespeare - Twelfth Night) Tired of trying to attract the woman of your dreams into your life? Fed up with getting nowhere fast? Does even your pet spaniel reject your caresses? Well, it might come as little surprise, but what attracts many women is music and those who play it. The sheer romance of standing beneath the boudoir window of your beloved and reciting your melancholy airs, whether clad in tunic and tights or not, has been known to turn even the coldest heart into the most ardent groupie ready to give you her all! But, I hear you say, isn’t that just a bit old fashioned and really corny, even laughable in these modern times? A valid point, so what have we come up with is a list of several innovative ways to attract your heart’s desire, through the power of music “cutting edge, original techniques, to really get you noticed and become the new Modern Romeo. So let’s go! Here are the first 4 musical instruments, mastery of any of which is bound to win over the heart of your beloved:

Aeolian Wind Harp The Aeolian harp originated in ancient Greece and was very popular throughout the Renaissance. In its traditional form, the instrument was designed to be played by the wind alone, without human action. The harp essentially comprises a wooden box with strings stretched between two bridges. If placed in a slightly open window where the wind can blow across the strings, it will produce random sounds, depending on the strength of the wind, ranging from a barely audible deep hum to a loud soprano scream. Interestingly, the effect can sometimes be both heard and seen in overhead utility lines. It also makes an often dramatic appearance in non-telescopic automobile antennae. You might also recall that in Nabokov’s Lolita, the narrator’s father married an English girl whose grandmother was an aficionado of the Aeolian harp.

Beer Bottle Organ The perfect foil to a hard night out on the town, the concept of a bottle organ dates back to the early 19th century. The organ sound is actually produced by blowing air over the tops of beer bottles housed in a wooden cabinet. The instrument, as developed by Peterson Tuners, includes an air pump and a self-playing device. It can also be made coin-operated. The beer bottles are filled or “œtunedœ” using mineral oil, so it will not evaporate or change tuning due to climatic changes.

Double Violin The violin is one of the most traditional romantic instruments: from Paganini to Nigel Kennedy, hearts have been won across the globe as romantic airs waft through starlit skies. But why stop at a single instrument? Be sure to kill off all competition with a double violin! Jon Rose developed his 10-string double violin as part of an ongoing project lasting over 25 years, creating a total art-form around the violin. Central to the project is innovation in violin design, with over 20 deconstructed instruments in the series of Relative Violins. The double violin is essentially two violins that share the same fingerboard. Jon Rose performs his group projects and solo music in over 50 concerts every year around the world.

Glass Armonica An instrument with a playing technique to should strike an immediate chord with the romantically inclined. And if you’re not romantically inclined, then why on earth are you reading this? The glass armonica was invented in 1761 by Benjamin Franklin. It is played in the same way as rubbing a wet finger around the rim of a wineglass, producing a musical note. The glass bowls are individually tuned, so that they do not need to be filled with water. The bowls are tuned by size, mounted one inside the other with cork on a metal spindle. The glasses are made to spin with a flywheel attached to a foot pedal. Ben Franklin himself declared “œOf all my inventions, the glass armonica has given me the greatest personal satisfactionœ. Whilst initially very popular (Mozart himself composing works for it), its popularity did not last far beyond the 18th century. This might even have been due to strange rumours that using the instrument caused both musicians and listeners to go insane. A German musicologist, one Friedrich Rochlitz, even went so far as to declare “œthe armonica excessively stimulates the nerves, plunges the player into a nagging depression and hence into a dark and melancholy mood that is apt method for slow self-annihilation. If you are suffering from any nervous disorder, you should not play it; if you are not yet ill you should not play it; if you are feeling melancholy you should not play it.œ I hope you have enjoyed learning about these novel methods of winning your heart’s desire and that you will soon become that romantic hero to which you aspire. Thank you for reading. Please watch this space for more unusual romantic ideas of how to seduce women and gain their hearts through music and the arts.

5 Strong Signals That Cute Co-Worker Is Interested In You Some people pursue a sexual attraction in the work place and sometimes it can lead to marriage, others become involved in affairs (a quick fumble at the Christmas party) but the vast majority do not want and prefer not to be involved in a romantic relationship in the workplace. The reasons are as individual as the people who give them. And most advice regarding office romance will tell you to steer clear because office romances are such a bad idea - this kind of advice mainly focuses on the negative outcomes of office romances. And if you go into ANY kind of relationship focusing on the negative, it's no wonder the outcome will be a negative one. Personally, I believe that the workplace is a pretty good place to meet a potential partner. I know because I had an office romance and not only lived to tell the tale, I've kept him. Unlike bars where you get to pick mainly in impulse and alcohol-impaired chat, in the office you have natural opportunities to get to see more of what the person is really like - how he/she treats other people, how he/she organizes their space, how he/she holds up under stress etc. But how can you tell if the person is interested in a relationship with you or just being a good colleague?

1. You are aware of his/her presence everywhere - He/she always seems to be watching you (extended eye contact, frequent glances, sits facing you in meetings etc) And sometimes what are supposed to be 10-15 minute meetings between the two of you frequently turn into 45 minute to an hour sessions.
2. He/she always finds some way to be physically close - This can be either very subtle or extremely "in your face" (literally!). It's his/her way of letting you know "I am interested if you are".
3. You "coincidentally" bump into each other every now and then - Forget about "coincidence" those "happy accidents" may not be so accidental after all. Even his/her "surprise" appearance at your favorite hangout is a signal that he/she's trying to connect with you (but doesn't want you to think he/she's a stalker!). Take this as a positive sign and make the most of your next encounter.
4. He/she seems "overly" curious about you, especially what you do outside of office hours - What he/she is doing is trying to find out if you already have someone and how serious you are about that person. It's interesting how most people who really feel strongly about someone are not put off by the mere fact that person may have someone else, especially if the relationship is not already serious. We humans are optimists by nature!
5. He/she calls you after 10 o'clock in the night just to see how you are doing or how your day went. And then lingers on the phone (uncomfortable silence) before hanging up. Or may be he/she calls and when the two of you start talking, it's sometimes into the wee-hours of the night. Wake up - that's what people who are dating do!

If he/she's single and you're single, you may be a few days away from actually dating. Just don't rush things, allow things to mature and progress naturally. Make sure you have done the following three things:

1. Checked your company guidelines regarding dating coworkers;
2. You have read the company policy on harassment and;
3. You have healthy emotional boundaries.

It isn't easy bringing together two areas of your life (work and a relationship) and a "broken heart" can be a severe emotional stress when things don't work out. I advise against accepting a job thinking it to be an unofficial dating club. Keep in mind that most people come to office to work not to look for love. Good luck with it!

Russian Ukrainian Mail Order Brides - 5 Tips About Lonely Russian Girls Dating and Relationships Mail order brides do they still exist? My Russian Girl Chemical Romance - Choosing Matchmaking Online Dating Site There is no exact statistics on how many sites that promote online dating, profiles of single Russian women and their ads, and other dating possibilities are there in Internet. It seems to be overwhelming, thousands and thousand of Russian girls are looking to get married. Some sites have 5000 profiles, some even more. But at the end of the day - all you need is just one good girl! You want to be married, you want to have family and children, you want to be happy and you have got all you need but your only loved sweetheart next to you. You are looking for somebody who would enjoy both going and staying at home and watching movies at home, you are looking for somebody who has the same life values, somebody who doesn't put the career over family and most of all somebody who is going to love you. Well if all that is about you and you decided to give it a chance and try looking for a Russian wife, I want to give few insider's advices on how to choose the right agency for your matchmaking needs. First of all, the agency must have proven ability to find beautiful young women eager to join you. You can tell about that by looking through the gallery of pictures, they must clearly show the appearance of a lady and have to be the right size so you can easily see all the features of lady's figure and face. The gallery doesn't necessarily have to be really big, the truth is that in a Personalized agency, there may be only 200 girls but they are all looking to be married and all are REAL girls, not just beautiful pictures. One really exclusive and high quality Agency must have personal interview with a lady before she joins the agency, during the interview our representative is making sure that the lady is genuinely interested in having serious relationship and meeting a man from abroad. The Ladies gallery has to be kept up to date and all the ladies who you can find at the web site should be available, if a girl meets somebody her profile has to be deleted from the agency's site immediately. The marriage agency you want to join has to have good reputation and serious advertisement campaign in the city where it is located; you should feel absolutely confident asking the agency staff questions about their work. The way they answer your questions shows a lot too. If you are a member the answer shouldn't take more than 24 hours and have to be clear and full, if you feel uncomfortable or concerned with the agency don't take the risk, usually decent agency has good customer support staff that answer your questions no problem. Agency that owns its office in the prestigious downtown area of the city is usually worth trusting where renting a little room somewhere should not be a very good sign. The web site of the Agency has to be inviting and simple. Finding a soul mate is not an easy task, so the best thing is to let professional matchmakers help you! Good luck!

Finding An Online Dating Partner Online dating is an excellent way for you to reach out and meet thousands of amazing people, you can form strong relationships with these people and maybe even find your true love, however, many people who are new to online dating have trouble finding and introducing themselves to other members of the dating community, this could be for a number of reasons such as they are quite shy, they don't know how to find nice people, they are worried about something or a few other things, in this article I am going to share with you some tips about online dating. Narrow your search down - Think about what sort of person you are looking for, the type of qualities that you like in a partner and use these to search for people in the community, you can narrow your search down by age, location, gender and a number of other things and you can also search via keywords, for example, if you wanted someone who is interested in playing tennis, then you can search for the word tennis and it will help you find people who mention it. Write a killer profile - Your profile is like a gateway for meeting new people online, it is basically there so that people can read about you, find a little out about you and then decide to contact you or not, the great thing is that if you have a killer profile then people will be drawn to you, you won't have to search for them as much, write yourself a great profile and it will help a lot with your search for a partner. Take the step - Some people spend tons of time searching for someone they like the look of and think would be nice to talk with but then when they actually find that person they can't bring themselves to introduce themselves, they feel shy or embarrassed or whatever reason they may have, the point is that they are missing out on a lot of opportunities to meet great people and form relationships with them. These are just a few tips for you on online dating and searching for a partner on the internet, I hope you found them helpful and remember that you can meet truly amazing people if you just get involved in online dating and start looking.

The Mosh Pit :: RE: "I'm Not Racist But Its True"

Apples and oranges-here's why:

"First of all you don't know what you are talkin' about. We don't have BET. BET is owned by white people who try to dictate our culture to us. They secretly purchased BET right under our Black noses and now all they market to our Black youth is gangsta this and gangsta that. All while you white suburban kids are copyin' off us because you are so awe stricken by Black Urban Culture."

Awe stricken by a culture that is flaunted in front of our faces every five seconds? don't flatter yourselves! anyone with no concept of critical thinking or any real taste can fall victim to crap that is shoved down people's throats day in and day out. I HATE hip hop culture and it sickens me to think that hip hop is regarded as a style of music AT ALL! Black music to me is the blues, gospel, reggae, OLD R&B and 60's and 70's motown-THAT was real music. Not just some idiots spewing out "rhymes" over music they didn't have the talent to create themselves.

So white media moguls are the reason why BET is misrepresenting your culture eh? and I suppose this would include the same whites who control the media that makes white people look like a bunch of well mannered, wimpy, politically correct, bourgeois, cardigan sweater wearing dorks? Has it ever occurred to you that white people being DENIED their TRUE culture and heritage (thanks to the way Christianity has suppressed any and all knowledge of it) has resulted in ignorant suburban kids wearing their pants down to their ankles and saying "Yo-what be crackin' in the hood" just to have some sense of identity at all? Because it is so evil and racist for us to have a distinct culture-goodness! :roll eyes:

"Now let's talk about the good 'ol ghetto which obviously you know nothing about. See the Blacks and Hispanics who live in the ghetto aren't like that because they want to be. They live with fear of getting shot, stabbed, robbed, and murdered like any White person would. We don't create that environment. That environment was created for us by the White government. These people live with the "KILL OR BE KILLED" philosophy because they have to. When people are put in the worse situations possible they do what they have to do to survive. It would be like bein' stranded in a jungle."

You make it sound as if every white person in the world is happy about that and gladly contributed to the nefarious schemes that were plotted by some very corrupt and dangerous people. Using your rationale, I could just as easily say that any black person who has ever voted republican or owned a nice home and a backyard pool is responsible for what happens in the ghetto, but I guess calling your attention to the existence of these uncle toms makes me a racist too-whatever(And just so you know,I was raised in places like South Phoenix,in the same impoverished conditions as my black and brown neighbors, having to fight constantly,not because I wanted to,or because I had something they needed,but simply because I am white.I also had some good friends there and some of them were people of color-funny how I knew right off of the bat that there is good and bad in all races from living there while the people who forced me to walk down the street ARMED never once even tried to see some good people in my race,so please don't condescend to tell me shit about the ghetto or the projects).

"You talk down on the ghetto but why is it that in the 80's and 90's White Presidents like Ronald Reagan and George Bush purposely flooded the Black and Brown ghetto communities with crack cocaine?Sure you can't think we brought it in to this country.We don't own the trains,boats and planes bringin' in the guns and drugs." Again, I suppose that every white person who ever voted for these clowns because they wanted to see smaller government, lower taxes and a strong national defense(Things the repucklickin' party always promises the naive public and never delivers)knew ahead of time that Reagan and Bush Sr would do such things and just danced a jig over it(no pun intended) when they elected them "for that very reason"!So is that what makes us the white devils that you say that we are?the fact that we don't possess your 20/20 hindsight as foresight?real tolerant of you there pal!

"Ask yourself who has the power to do this?White people.I mean come on.If they can ship Black Enslaved Human Cargo into this country,they can ship guns and drugs here.Did you know that while George Bush Sr. was in office that the cocaine supply in America increased by 2000%? Yes 2000%.That is far from a coincidence".

I suppose that explains the substantial rise in crystal methamphetamine addiction among lower class whites over the last fifteen years,ever since this "white government" you speak of decided to allow the southwestern borders to be over run by the same mexican gangs that now control the meth trade?It was these same republican idiots who allowed this and turned around and blamed it on the dems,that much is true,but don't try to tell me that I happily supported such incarnations of American government,knowing all the while that many of my friends and family members would eventually wind up as they did-homeless,imprisoned or dead.

"And yes if you look at history all the way up to now,Whites have committed the most violent acts of all time.They are the Michael Jordan of violence without old age and retirement.Do the research yourself.I mean you guys have the highest number of serial killers.I mean isn't strange that all across the world you are known as "white devil"?

-You have Hitler.

-You have the White Pilgrims who murdered the Indians.

-You have had slavery and still do in some countries.

-You have Sir Jeffrey Amherst who passed out clothing infected with small pox to the Indians knowing they had no immunity.

-You have George W. Bush

-You have the "Son of Sam"

-You have Jeffrey Dahmer

-You have Bloody Mary

-You have Ivan the Terrible

-You have Vlad Tepish a.k.a. Vlad the Impaler or just Dracula

-You have the KKK,CIA,FBI,ATF,DEA,CFR,ABC,NBC,CNN,MTV,BET,The U.S.A."

And if you believe that these things occurred and these people existed for no reason than their skin pigment and their European heritage,then YOU have a lot of egocentric ignorance!You say WE have Hitler,Vlad the impaler,the son of sam,E.T.C.but you totally(and quite purposely)ignore the fact that these people all come from different white cultures and at different times;I could just as easily point out to you that your race has had entire TRIBES that practiced cannablism ,warring factions who took enemy slaves and sold them to dutch slave traders,drive by shooters who have indiscriminately killed people of ALL races,(oops! I forgot,it's okay for you to kill because of that "desperate situation" you all live in, including those of you who sit on your asses and type out hateful banter against whites) and might I also add that WE (since you insist on stupidly identifying every white person with every other white person) have had men like JONAS SALK who discovered the cure for polio, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN who discovered the electricity (and FYI opposed slavery) that enables you to share your own brand of racism with the world and the Greeks and the Irish who helped to preserve the world's history.

"Historically whites are the biggest criminals in the whole universe. They have even stolen the Land of America from the Indigenous Peoples of America (Indians to you) and somehow managed to dictate small pieces of land called reservations to them. They were here first, yet White Tyrannical Terrorist murdered them off like it was the tip of the iceberg when indeed it was. Everytime the White Europeans went out to explore they would "discover" some new place, new people and then destroy their culture, religion, and their way of life. I can't forget enslavement of these people."

Anyone who proudly boasts of having a non-linear view of history the way you seem to should know that the first northern Europeans to settle in the regions of Canada and what is now referred to as the United States were my ancestors, the NORSE.

And despite what you may have heard about the Vikings, our ancestors were not the bloodthirsty pillagers we have been depicted as being in some history books and films. When the Vikings came to America, they established trade with the indigenous peoples, had intercultural marriages (which accounts for the reason why tribes such as the Inuits went from being smaller people to larger people) and never drew an ounce of blood from anyone unless they had to. But there I go again, forgetting how secular history is wrong ONLY when it doesn't favor your version of past events!

"Why is it when a White male commits the same crime a Black male commits, the Black male is 100% of the time guaranteed to receive a harsher sentence or punishment? Why is that a Black man or woman can apply for a job and be passed up at least 70% of the time for a less qualified White person."

I don't know what parallel universe you come from, but in the real world, it is under qualified people of color who get the breaks that programs such as affirmative action give them. And as far as the so-called criminal "justice" system is concerned, you really need to look at what motivating force is behind it - GREED. Being locked up isn't a pleasant feeling (yes, that is coming from the voice of experience) but I can guarantee you that probation terms are NOT lighter sentences, and could it be that whites (who I must admit are usually a little better off financially than most people of color) get probation terms because the fines the system incurs from probationers FUND the incredibly corrupt system in the first place? Man, being in jail ain't fuckin' nothin' nice, but having the threat of jail or prison being held over your head every fucking time you come up short for your monthly probation fees is nothing less than psychological torture.

"Now if you ask me the UNCF, Black History Month, and MLK Day are just little bullshit ways of softening the blow we received from slavery. The NAACP has been infiltrated long time ago. It is really not for the Black community anymore. The UNCF, MLK Day, and Black History Month is okay but it's still built on bullshit."

They don't teach us real Black History in this White Society. They tell us that our history started in America with slavery. Then they glorify people like Frederick Douglass, George Washington Carver, etc. But they never speak on our great history before all that. They never tell us about the Black Egyptians (the Egyptians were Black.) and the Empires in Kush. They never tell us that we created religion, government, philosophy and built the pyramids.

Why should Whites have a WET or a White History Month? You've had the last 600 years. I mean you have your White Jesus, Moses, Noah, Abraham. You have privilege in this country just because you are White. In the White school curriculum they glorify who? The White Europeans who claimed that Blacks were only 3/5 of human beings. What foreign languages do we learn in school? Yes that's right, White European languages. And yes you do have an organization that is setup for whites to only advance. It's called the legal system. The education system, the banking system, capitalism, fascism, etc.

Also for your information we didn't march in the Million Man March for our rights. It was for unity amongst our people.

See your bulletin was very ignorant and offensive. You aren't Black and will never be Black. You don't know what we have had to put up with in this country and you don't care and won't care because you don't have to deal with it as a White person. You know nothing about us period. The only thing you know about us is BET and what the White owners want you to know.

We aren't the "American Gangsters" we are portrayed as. We only imitate what has been done to us. That is the language that tyrants understand-Violence. So next time the White European American man will know that he ain't takin' us no sexual intercourse' where we don't wanna be. And that is why MLK has a day.

It is because he said what the White oppressors wanted hear. "We wil fight violence with non-violence". And what was the result? They started spittin' on us and hittin' us with rocks while we would peacefully picket and march.

But you see they didn't give Malcolm X a day. Why? Because his motto was if you hit me then I'ma hit you back. I fully agree. Why? Because violence is the only language these White Oppressors speak and undertsand without a syllable lost. They taught us how to be killers and thieves.

Deep down inside you may not be a racist but you are a stereotypist. You live in a White superficial suburban clueless world.

Why don't you actually do some research and reading on Black people and their history before you go ranting on about some bullshit? And I don't mean history written and compiled by white people who aren't even cultured on us.

Thing is no matter what you say, you can't say "nigger" period. You are a descendant of White Slave Maters and the "n" word standard stands for you too. You can't say it.

And the reason we are proud to be Black is because for the last 600 years Whites have put it in our heads that we are niggers and bein' black is a curse. Well now we know that the 1st people on Earth were Black and Jesus was black. We now know we built the pyramids and that the Egyptians were Black.

We now know that we invented religion, math, philosophy, government, music, etc that other cultures have come to us to learn but have turned around and made it their own like they invented it.. People like the Greeks and Romans, the English etc."

The only thing I can honestly say about the remainder of your reply to this person is that you are without a doubt, the single most narrow minded, liberal rhetoric spewing, intellectually dishonest, bigoted demagogue I have ever had the (mis)pleasure of encountering! You need to stop whining and thinking and behaving as if all white people live in a fine southern mansion with lots of money and you are just some poor, oppressed colored slave. Grow up, grow the balls it takes to do some REAL research and accept the fact that humans of any color are just another species of animal, who behave the same way as animals do, if not often worse; The fact in and of itself that it takes people of color to cooperate with all of us evil white people with all of our "institutional power" to do some of the rotten shit that goes on in the world is proof that given the opportunity, ANYONE would gladly take the same selfish opportunities.

P.S. I intend to repost your friend's bulletin with a relish!

absolutely intercultural 26 +++ Second Life +++ B-people +++ Conference: Does Culture Still Matter?

Are there any B-people in Second Life? And does culture still matter?Â

absolutely virtualSecond Life is a virtual world but is it also a new culture which we can explore in the same way we can come to new cultures in the real world? To consider some of these issues I talked with Helen Keegan of Salford University who first visited Second Life on Christmas Day, 2006 and Sus Nyrop, a freelance educational consultantÂ in Denmark who has visited both Danish and other areas of Second Life. We wondered whether your appearance matters and if it helps to have cultural informants as a guide.

absolutely flexibleBSamfundet is a new society in Denmark promoting flexible working hours. The structure of the day and attitudes to time are aspects which vary greatly across cultures.Â B-samfundet means B-society and by catering to those who only come alive after 10 in the morning theyÂ maintain that this will reduce traffic jams and will help those so-called B-people who are only fully functional later in the day. But is this an issue that is going to resonate in Denmark where work starts and finishes early? To answer this question I took a straw poll of my colleagues in Grenaa and I did manage to unearth some shattered B-people. absolutely important Does Culture Still Matter? That's the name of the annual conference of the Intercultural Management Institute in Washington coming up on March 15 and 16. We were very honoured to be invited to cover the conference in an upcoming show.

The next show is our one year anniversary show and will be coming to you from our German station on March 23rd.

The Host of this show is: Anne Fox

Eating For Life Right! For Men

There is no exact statistics on how many sites that promote online dating, profiles of single Russian women and their ads, and other dating possibilities are there in Internet. It seems to be overwhelming, thousands and thousand of Russian girls are looking to get married. Some sites have 5000 profiles, some even more. But at the end of the day- all you need is just one good girl! You want to be married, you want to have family and children, you want to be happy and you have got all you need but your only loved sweetheart next to you. You are looking for somebody who would enjoy both going and staying at home and watching movies at home, you are looking for somebody who has the same life values, somebody who doesn't put the career over family and most of all somebody who is going to love you. Well if all that is about you and you decided to give it a chance and try looking for a Russian wife, I want to give few insider's advices on how to choose the right agency for your matchmaking needs. First of all, the agency must have proven ability to find beautiful young women eager to join you. You can tell about that by looking through the gallery of pictures, they must clearly show the appearance of a lady and have to be the right size so you can easily see all the features of lady's figure and face. The gallery doesn't necessarily have to be really big, the truth is that in a Personalized agency, there may be only 200 girls but they are all looking to be married and all are REAL girls, not just beautiful pictures. One really exclusive and high quality Agency must have personal interview with a lady before she joins the agency, during the interview our representative is making sure that the lady is genuinely interested in having serious relationship and meeting a man from abroad. The Ladies gallery has to be kept up to date and all the ladies who you can find at the web site should be available, if a girl meets somebody her profile has to be deleted from the agency's site immediately. The marriage agency you want to join has to have good reputation and serious advertisement campaign in the city where it is located; you should feel absolutely confident asking the agency staff questions about their work. The way they answer your questions shows a lot too. If you are a member the answer shouldn't take more than 24 hours and have to be clear and full, if you feel uncomfortable or concerned with the agency don't take the risk, usually decent agency has good customer support staff that answer your questions no problem. Agency that owns its office in the prestigious downtown area of the city is usually worth trusting where renting a little room somewhere should not be a very good sign. The web site of the Agency has to be inviting and simple. Finding a soul mate is not an easy task, so the best thing is to let professional matchmakers help you! Good luck!

order brides do they still exist? You came to realizing the desire to try something new in your life, something that you have heard about but didn't dare to try, well let me answer some of the questions you might have. Of course I don't know exactly what you want to ask, so if you don't find the information that you need in this article, please feel free to contact me! Here we go!

1. What are those girls looking for? Well, most of Russian girls you see are looking for exactly the same thing as you are! They want to have a family, want to be happy, have kids and enjoy life. One thing they are interested right now, is a man from somewhere abroad.
2. Why such nice looking ladies can't find themselves a man in Ukraine or Russia? I must admit that there is fewer men than women in Ukraine, but this is just a part of the reason. Men here are so spoiled with the beauty of women, that they don't really value it a lot, so after couple of negative experiences with local men girls start to think that their soul mate does not have to live in the same city or even country. One more thing is that international and intercultural marriages have proved to be really strong. The difficulties that people must overcome makes their relationship better and there is always the process of learning about each other language, country and culture.
3. There is a girl who I like, what should I do? Just send her a letter or roses? How should I write the first letter? Congratulations! It's very important thing that you are about to do. As they say: There is just one chance to make the first impression, so you should carefully write the letter. What to mention in the first letter? Any general information of you that you would like to share with the lady. Such as your age, marital status, occupation, hobbies, favorite time spending and also express your interest to the personality of the lady. Try to make the letter as personal as possible. Asking questions will show her your interest in getting to know her, so ask questions! Concerning flowers and other gifts, girls love romantic men, you know that! Don't forget to attach your picture.
4. What if my correspondence will go very well and I decide to meet the Lady in person. What should I do? Do I need a visa to come to Ukraine? Going to Ukraine and meeting the girl(s) will be one of the most exciting experiences in your life. The Agency will ensure that your trip is well arranged and the meetings are scheduled in the convenient time. The initial meetings are usually not very long - 1,5 hour each. This way it's possible to meet all the ladies of interest within the few days and to concentrate on those ladies who you feel the most comfortable with. Meetings are one on one basis and take a place in some nice cafes or restaurants. You do not need a visa to enter Ukraine if you are a citizen of the USA.
5. If we decide to get married how do I bring her home? The process of bringing a lady in the country is different in all countries, but in the US it means applying for a K1 visa. The process of getting a visa takes from 6 to 9 months and requires lots of paperwork. But it's absolutely real to get a visa, be accurate with the documents and read carefully all the instructions. I hope I answered some of the questions you wanted to ask. As I said before, if you have more questions please go ahead and send them over to me! I will be happy to answer.

Does Adult Dating Really Work Looking for a discreet relationship without commitment in an adult dating site is more advance compared to casual dating and flirting. Why, the demand could be very specific sex. Of course, it is one of the handiest arrangements you can find in the Internet. Again it will lead to some form of paranoia, but now the big question is not about chemistry or mental compatibility: Is the candidate adult date clean enough? Could your match be trustworthy even in shallow terms? Will it be the same impression behind the sexy shape? Sex arrangement through adult dating is channelled by some online web sites, which have contacts or lists of consenting members to who have the same interest. In conventional thinking, still it is the same dating norms altered in approach. It has changed in sophistication, yet it is still the same flesh and blood but effective online set-up grabbed by hideous individuals to satisfy the endless search for thrill. It is beginning to sound like something is scary about adult dating and finding sex in it, but actually it is legally acceptable in many countries. This has nothing to do with rearing, but it is more on sexual orientation. Adult dating may not always be about conventional sex at all, but it could be about other forms of sexual explorations. Let us accept the reality of human sexuality, which paved way to either fancy bars with soft entertainment, to hardcore, aggressive sex trading. For adults, these are just doors wide open to enter as long as there is enough cash to spend for. Online adult dating sites on the other hand, have extended services by offering ways for people to browse through a wide range of members of the same path, and make their meeting conveniently arranged via Internet interaction. In more obvious terms, matchmaking and marriage arrangements of two enthusiastic people have been part and parcel of the business. Adult dating could have defied the traditional meaning of love and courtship. But what could really be the right move for every unique individual's missing pursuit? Is there really someone who can truly testify that online adult dating and sex are totally failure? It has been the reality of Internet age to find the highest traffic in adult sites. It is talking about audiences who are indulged in viewing pornographic and private multimedia materials, but also the vast majority who are hanging around in search of a right date and prospective partner. It is ironic to realize that despite the baby boomer's stance in this era, people still can't find the right match and would still rely on electronic dating services catered online. What are the advantages of adult dating? The answer is convenience. You would need a lot of guts if you will walk across downtown and dominantly ask a stranger of the opposite sex to engage a few minutes with you for a short date. Finding one at a party won't promise quantity of choices as well. Adult dating has gathered the group of people who have the same mental inclination as yours. You could select from global pools and shortlist the best at your very own discretion. You could keep in touch, see profile videos and read their minds thru email exchange. If they are into it, you could even make sex encounter happen without strings attached. Travelers could set-up dates from other members traveling the same destination. It will be an exciting date in the making!

Benefits of a BBW Dating Site There was a time that people would put blind ads in the newspaper to find a date. The Internet has opened a new frontier for all the single men and women out there since almost every household has a computer. If men are sick and tired of seeing women that are thin and flat chested, there are now BBW dating services available that cater to those that are big breasted. In fact, women have also special preferences these days and go for males that are big and handsome as well. The systems used in these BBW dating sites are not that different from others on the web. The person is required to become a member first to be able to enjoy its BBW dating services. The first thing you should do on a BBW Dating Site is come up with a user name. It will be a good idea to think of a few because someone else could already be using it. The point of contact on the BBW dating site is the profile so people are not required to mention one's email address. Aside from giving a profile, the newbie is also required to submit a picture. Studies have shown those who submit this have a better chance of meeting someone than those who just leave it blank. Since there are a lot of people who are also members of the site, you will also have to think of a good introductory line. It may be hard to sum up who the person is with just a few words but it is better than nothing to be able to reach out to strangers. Should someone reply, it is only proper to reply back even if the person is not interested. This is courtesy to the one who spent some effort initiating contact. However, if the person is interested, then the first date can be scheduled. This should be a public place where there are a lot of people present so no one will feel scared. During this time, you have the choice whether or not to reveal some personal details. Laying all the cards may be a turn off for someone but others appreciate the honesty so it is really a game. If the first date went well, then this will surely mean more to come. But before jumping the gun and thinking about becoming a couple, it is advisable to meet other people and then choose among the few which one has the potential of moving on to the next level. Some of the BBW dating sites are free while others will charge a fee. Those who are skeptical about paying will sometimes get a one month free trial period to enjoy some of the services. Those that are impressed can sign up later on to meet other people that are also seeking the same thing, which is companionship. It is perfectly all right to keep the profile active the entire time that the person is dating someone from the site. This is because the couple has not gotten married yet or anything but it is only right to close it should the two decide to go further. This is the only way for both parties to show sincerity in deciding to have a relationship. There is a saying that goes, "beauty is seen inside and not what is seen with one's eyes." Perhaps this is true for those who want to try a BBW dating site and may find that special someone to spend the rest of their life.

How To Be Safe With Online Dating There are many pitfalls, in the world of online dating and personals, never take a site's claims at face value, a site might boast several thousand members, but on closer inspection many of those members may not have been active in a week, a month, even a year. Many might have signed and never returned. There is also an increasing market in the world of online dating; where newly created dating sites agree with established sites to swap databases of membership profiles, purely to entice others to join; on joining to their surprise these new members may find that most of the people on the site will possibly never reply to their private message. There is also an underhand tactic being used on certain sites, where women are being recruited to simply keep the men happy, i.e pretend to be interested in them, and willing to continue to keep the embers burning, when in truth they have no interest, ut are being paid to pretend. So beware of that picture that just looks too good to be true, and incidentally is interested in you. Of course there is always the element of fraud, especially with any newly created dating site, fraudsters target these hoping the individuals are susceptible to their schemes, it usually follows the same pattern, people declaring their undying love for you, or they need your help to move large amounts of money, just make sure you send the remittance via western union, or any other untraceable e-currency. Remember to be safe than sorry, if you do eventually find someone online, always meet in a crowded public place, and never give out personal details to your potential suitor, until you have known them for a good while.

5 Strong Signals That Cute Co-Worker Is Interested In You Some people pursue a sexual attraction in the work place and sometimes it can lead to marriage, others become involved in affairs (a quick fumble at the Christmas party) but the vast majority do not want and prefer not to be involved in a romantic relationship in the workplace. The reasons are as individual as the people who give them. And most advice regarding office romance will tell you to steer clear because office romances are such a bad idea - this kind of advice mainly focuses on the negative outcomes of office romances. And if you go into ANY kind of relationship focusing on the negative, it's no wonder the outcome will be a negative one. Personally, I believe that the workplace is a pretty good place to meet a potential partner. I know because I had an office romance and not only lived to tell the tale, I've kept him. Unlike bars where you get to pick mainly in impulse and alcohol-impaired chat, in the office you have natural opportunities to get to see more of what the person is really like - how he/she treats other people, how he/she organizes their space, how he/she holds up under stress etc. But how can you tell if the person is interested in a relationship with you or just being a good colleague?

1. You are aware of his/her presence everywhere - He/she always seems to be watching you (extended eye contact, frequent glances, sits facing you in meetings etc) And sometimes what are supposed to be 10-15 minute meetings between the two of you frequently turn into 45 minute to an hour sessions.
2. He/she always finds some way to be physically close - This can be either very subtle or extremely "in your face" (literally!). It's his/her way of letting you know "I am interested if you are".
3. You "coincidentally" bump into each other every now and then - Forget about "coincidence" those "happy accidents" may not be so accidental after all. Even his/her "surprise" appearance at your favorite hangout is a signal that he/she's trying to connect with you (but doesn't want you to think he/she's a stalker!). Take this as a positive sign and make the most of your next encounter.
4. He/she seems "overly" curious about you, especially what you do outside of office hours - What he/she is doing is trying to find out if you already have someone and how serious you are about that person. It's interesting how most people who really feel strongly about someone are not put off by the mere fact that person may have someone else, especially if the relationship is not already serious. We humans are optimists by nature!
5. He/she calls you after 10 O'clock in the night just to see how you are doing or how your day went. And then lingers on the phone (uncomfortable silence) before hanging up. Or may be he/she calls and when the two of you start talking, it's sometimes into the wee-hours of the night. Wake up - that's what people who are dating do! If he/she's single and you're single, you may be a few days away from actually dating. Just don't rush things, allow things to mature and progress naturally. Make sure you have done the following three things:
 1. Checked your company guidelines regarding dating coworkers;
 3. You have healthy emotional boundaries.It isn't easy bringing together two areas of your life (work and a relationship) and a "broken heart" can be a severe emotional stress when things don't work out. I advise against accepting a job thinking it to be an unofficial dating club. Keep in mind that most people come to office to work not to look for love. Good luck with it!

Dating World Online: All You Need To Know It seems like everyone is talking about on-line dating these days. Everyone has either a wonderful success story or the worst horror story in the world. If you are new to the world of Internet dating, you may be put off by the horror stories. However, the online dating world can also be a wonderful place to meet new people-even that "special someone." The only difference between "real" dating and on-line dating is the Internet. There are numerous online dating services available, catering to people of all ages, interests, demographics and various walks of life. The numbers of people who are participating in online dating services are on the rise. A recent study showed that approximately 1 out of 5 Americans have or do now participate in some form of an online dating service. More than ever before, young people are using the Internet as their main route to meet people. They see nothing shameful about this way of socializing. Plus, the anonymity that the online dating world provides can be appealing. The more reputable online dating services will require any potential members to sign a membership agreement (make sure you read this carefully before signing up). These sites have created a set of requirements that must be met before someone is allowed to participate. Most of these sites are also pay-sites. You may be able to have a free, but limited, membership-which may allow you to view profiles but not contact members. But this also allows the services to accept or reject aspiring members based on their requirements. If you do not already know, subscribers to online dating services are required to create a profile containing a picture and other information such as interests, hobbies, and other similar information. Most are also asked what type of person they would like to be contacted by. Subscribers also have a chance to express themselves and their personality as well as specify what they are looking for-whether social networking, friendship, or a romantic rendezvous. The subscribers are then matched with, or can search for, fellow subscribers who match their descriptions. Then it is up to the subscribers to pursue a connection with the other subscribers. Online dating services are designed to be simple to use. Anyone with Internet access (as close as a library card) and a credit card can take advantage of these services. With a simple click of a mouse, one can dive from a dating pool that is limited by location and familiarity into a dating pool that is practically infinite.

Women: Some Advice on Dating Friends Women: Some Advice on Dating Friends So you have a really close guy friend and he's giving indications he wants to be more. You think he'll ask you out on an actual date soon and you're worried. Should you date your friend? If things don't go well, will you still be able to be friends with him? These are all things that go through our minds when a good friend asks us out on a date. So here is some advice for any woman that might be in this situation themselves. 1. First and most importantly, can you see yourself being more than friends with this guy? Sometimes we have really good guy friends, and it never occurs to us that he might be interested on more than a friendship level. And if it never occurs to us, then we've probably never explored our feelings for him in this way. Once you do explore the feelings from this perspective, you might find that you actually are attracted to him as more than a friend, and you like the idea of dating him. On the other hand, you could discover that there's nothing there but friendship and caring. 2. Date romantically or as friends? Depending on your feelings for each other, you could simply decide to date as friends. This is a fun way to go out and enjoy yourself while being comfortable with the company, yet feeling safe and unpressured. This is also a great way for both of you to deal with the occasional loneliness of being single. If on the other hand, your friend wants to become more than friends, things could change quite drastically depending on your decision. If he wants to take your friendship to a new, romantic level, you need to decide if you want that as well. If you're not sure which kind of dating he wants though, ask him. If he's a great friend you should be more than comfortable asking this question, and answering it honestly. 3. How will your friendship be affected. This tends to be one of the biggest concerns about dating a friend. If he's a really great friend, you worry that trying to have a romance with him might destroy the friendship. You wonder what will happen if things don't work out. Will he still be your friend if the romance fails? Or even if a simple date goes badly? This is where you have to ask yourself which is more important: Having a great friend for life or potentially finding that one true life partner? It's not uncommon for friends to become the best romantic couple in the world. In fact, relationships which start out as friendships have a better chance of surviving romantically because you know each other already, you're comfortable around each other, and you obviously have things in common since you spend time together as friends already. You also have to realize there are different levels of friends. If the guy is a casual friend then it might not be too big of a deal to date him. If however, he's more of a best friend, things could be a bit more complicated. If the soul searching hasn't worked, try taking things slow. Go out with a group of friends - the interested guy included - and see how things go. Try sitting next to him at the movies and see how it feels. You may find there's just nothing there to build on romantically, or you may find there's a stirring you never expected.

Online Dating Tips: The Power Of Music To Attract Women "If music be the food of love, play on; Give me excess of it" (Shakespeare - Twelfth Night) Tired of trying to attract the woman of your dreams into your life? Fed up with getting nowhere fast? Does even your pet spaniel reject your caresses? Well, it might come as little surprise, but what attracts many women is music and those who play it. The sheer romance of standing beneath the boudoir window of your beloved and reciting your melancholy airs, whether clad in tunic and tights or not, has been known to turn even the coldest heart into the most ardent groupie ready to give you her all! But, I hear you say, isn't that just a bit old fashioned and really corny, even laughable in these modern times? A valid point, so what we've come up with is a list of several innovative ways to attract your heart's desire, through the power of music " cutting edge, original techniques, to really get you noticed and become the new Modern Romeo. So let's go! Here are the first 4 musical instruments, mastery of any of which is bound to win over the heart of your beloved:

Aeolian Wind Harp The Aeolian harp originated in ancient Greece and was very popular throughout the Renaissance. In its traditional form, the instrument was designed to be played by the wind alone, without human action. The harp essentially comprises a wooden box with strings stretched between two bridges. If placed in a slightly open window where the wind can blow across the strings, it will produce random sounds, depending on the strength of the wind, ranging from a barely audible deep hum to a loud soprano scream. Interestingly, the effect can sometimes be both heard and seen in overhead utility lines. It also makes an often dramatic appearance in non-telescopic automobile antennae. You might also recall that in Nabokov's Lolita, the narrator's father married an English girl whose grandmother was an aficionado of the Aeolian harp.

Beer Bottle Organ The perfect foil to a hard night out on the town, the concept of a bottle organ dates back to the early 19th century. The organ sound is actually produced by blowing air over the tops of beer bottles housed in a wooden cabinet. The instrument, as developed by Peterson Tuners, includes an air pump and a self-playing device. It can also be made coin-operated. The beer bottles are filled or "tuned" using mineral oil, so it will not evaporate or change tuning due to climatic changes.

Double Violin The violin is one of the most traditional romantic instruments: from Paganini to Nigel Kennedy, hearts have been won across the globe as romantic airs waft through starlit skies. But why stop at a single instrument? Be sure to kill off all competition with a double violin! Jon Rose developed his 10-string double violin as part of an ongoing project lasting over 25 years, creating a total art-form around the violin. Central to the project is innovation in violin design, with over 20 deconstructed instruments in the series of Relative Violins. The double violin is essentially two violins that share the same fingerboard. Jon Rose performs his group projects and solo music in over 50 concerts every year around the world.

Glass Armonica An instrument with a playing technique to should strike an immediate chord with the romantically inclined. And if you're not romantically inclined, then why on earth are you reading this? The glass armonica was invented in 1761 by Benjamin Franklin. It is played in the same way as rubbing a wet finger around the rim of a wineglass, producing a musical note. The glass bowls are individually tuned, so that they do not need to be filled with water. The bowls are tuned by size, mounted one inside the other with cork on a metal spindle. The glasses are made to spin with a flywheel attached to a foot pedal. Ben Franklin himself declared "Of all my inventions, the glass armonica has given me the greatest personal satisfaction". Whilst initially very popular (Mozart himself composing works for it), its popularity did not last far beyond the 18th century. This might even have been due to strange rumours that using the instrument caused both musicians and listeners to go insane. A German musicologist, one Friedrich Rochlitz, even went so far as to declare "the armonica excessively stimulates the nerves, plunges the player into a nagging depression and hence into a dark and melancholy mood that is apt method for slow self-annihilation. If you are suffering from any nervous disorder, you should not play it; if you are not yet ill you should not play it; if you are feeling melancholy you should not play it." I hope you have enjoyed learning about these novel methods of winning your heart's desire and that you will soon become that romantic hero to which you aspire. Thank you for reading. Please watch this space for more unusual romantic ideas of how to seduce women and gain their hearts through music and the arts.

Multilingualism boosts European competitiveness

Europa Press Release, Brussels, 23 February 2007

Each year, thousands of European companies lose business and miss out on contracts as a result of their lack of language skills, according to a study carried out for the European Commission during 2006 by CILT, the UK National Centre for Languages, published today. The findings suggest that there is enormous potential for small businesses in Europe to increase their total exports if they invest more in languages and develop coherent language strategies. Recent research shows that companies that enhance their language skills can exploit better the business opportunities in the EU's internal market, which, with nearly half a billion people, is the world's largest.

"Far from being an unwelcome cost to doing business", European Commissioner for Multilingualism, Leonard Orban, said, "investing in language skills can dramatically improve a company's business opportunities. I plan to place multilingualism at the heart of the Lisbon strategy for more growth and jobs."

The study, entitled "Effects on the European Economy of Shortages of Foreign Language Skills in Enterprise", is the first attempt at European level to estimate the cost to EU business of not having foreign language skills. The data in the study is based on a sample of 2000 small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) across Europe, correlated with information from 30 multinational companies and a group of experts from the countries involved, and supplemented by a set of case studies.

Nearly half of the exporting SMEs surveyed are planning to expand into new foreign markets in the next three years. Consequently they predict an increase in their demand for language skills to meet this expansion. However, instead of investing in language training themselves, they prefer to look to the Member States' education and training systems to provide them with people with the right language skills. Or they simply look on the labour market for geographically mobile people who have the required language skills. The research shows that these responses are increasingly inadequate. A significant proportion of European companies are losing export business through lack of language skills and intercultural skills. The study suggests that increasing investment to develop language skills across the EU would produce far-reaching economic benefits, especially in terms of a positive impact on SME productivity and export performance.

While the report confirms the importance of English as the world business language, other languages are used extensively as intermediary languages. In particular, the analysis reveals that there is a need for a range of other languages if business relationships are to be built successfully. Those cited as being the most important include the main European languages, such as German, French and Spanish, but increasingly also other world languages like Mandarin, Arabic and Russian.

The study will form the basis for the forthcoming work of the Business Forum, which Commissioner Orban intends to launch this year in partnership with European business, to understand better how language skills impact on EU trade and jobs.

The executive summary of the study is available as MEMO/07/79. The complete study is published on the following website:
