Intercultural Training and the Iceburg Model

Many people question what culture is. How can it be defined? What analogies can be used to describe it? In intercultural training one of the questions that is often asked of participants is to think what culture means to them. What picture can they draw to describe it? Whether they draw a tree, cauldron, plate of food or a tapestry they are all valid as culture means different things to different people. In essence what they are trying to describe is something that is made up of lots of things and is multifaceted. Intercultural & Cross Cultural News : 04/02/2007 - 04/03/2007

Tony Chocolonely talking to cocoa farmers

Iâ€™ve been too busy to blog, but the blogideas do keep coming in my head. So it would be better to allow time to let them out..

Iâ€™ve watched one episode (no. 4) of the â€œkeuringsdienst van waardeâ€™. Unfortunately, it is not yet online, but it will be available here.

The story line is that Tony Chocolonely buys fair trade chocolate in the Netherlands. With Fair Trade farmers get a higher price for their produce. At least thatâ€™s the idea. Tony goes to Ghana to find out whatâ€™s actually happening. Thereâ€™s a dialogue with farmers which made me laugh outloud (out of sheer recognition). The dialogue between Tony and 3 farmers is roughly as follows:

Tony: â€œSo are you aware that you are Fair Trade farmers?â€™ (something in his voice showing that he will have found something if the answer is no) Cocoa farmer 1 and 2: â€œNo, we are not awareâ€™ Cocoa farmer 3 (cooperative): â€œI think you are awareâ€™. Cocoa farmer 1 and 2: â€œYes, we are awareâ€™.

The rest of the dialogues are full of recognition for me too. The thing is that people are trying very hard to please the interviewer, but also try to safeguard their interests. So there are a lot of assumptions going on in their heads, influencing the answers. This makes it very hard to get the actual picture clear. Just a very practical example of intercultural communication in the context of development!

The Peoples Economics - plot ABCD

THE PEOPLES ECONOMICS - ABCD? At Ecosaintjames and our twin village Bethesda (ten miles out from DC's white house) you can discover how Entrepreneurial Revolutionaries team up with leading future history networks to learn how people may search and value true freedoms with a special editorial focus on 3 decades and 2 centuries of questioning how open will leadership be and how deeply may democracy network worldwide. We take mathematics that is used to rule over people's lives very seriously. We would like to offer you any help needed to stand up and question anyone who disagrees with this. Whilst we can offer value true's ABCD at any mathematical level requested, our open source affiliates are required to agree that each navigational tool is also available as a map or learning game as accessible for all people to communicate with as arithmetic's multiplication's tables. Contextual gravity matters in all our action networks, especially those relationship permissions connecting any open space race you may be interested in helping hi-trust people everywhere to launch.

A) EXPONENTIALS FUTURES ANALYSIS can determine which global market sectors are tilting toward a collapsing world's death and destruction, and which systematically value sustainability.

B) RATIONALISES TRANSPARENCY OF ECONOMICS as geared round one of 2 opposite mathematical assumptions- which do you want your children to inherit from globalisation pattern rules systemically evolved by today's generation?

Lost Transparency gears only to the big get bigger by letting speculators profit from bubbling up and gaining from timing destruction

Worldwide Transparency: Leaders of a globally networked market can return 100 times investment stakes but only by sustaining every participating society and valuing the openly connected quality of management which simply and systemically supports 24/7 productivities earned by hi-trust knowledge teamworking

C) TRUST-FLOW GOVERNANCE 1 2 RESTORES: Unseen Wealth of service economy where people's lifetimes is primary investment in humans making a difference

Value exchange multipliers of human relationship networks where the greatest innovations are always concerned with mediating boundaries (no silos) and resolving constructive tensions (enjoy change due to environmental opportunities or threats as well as wholly deeper adaptation to what leading core purpose demands next)

Global integration of deep contextual diversity enabling all societies to collaborate as well as stimulate competitive dynamics

D) INTERCULTURAL & NETWORKED WORLD MAPS CAN NOW DRAW ON 30 years of open dialogues around scripts of Entrepreneurial Revolution and networking's Death of Distance- as well as nearly 200 years of the school of cross-cultural economics intended by the founder of The Economist. Revolutions prioritised for early 19th C generation: end slavery to land owners, and placed-based constitutional cop out that start with the devaluation assumption that some beings will be born to need capital punishment. 1984 prioritisations for early 21st century included these deadlines: replace addiction to carbonised energy by the cleansing energy of photosynthesis; link broadcast and internet media to make science and end-poverty Olympics as youthfully inspiring to multiply through active learning as sports or worshipping celebrity's images . Join your network of co-mentors with one of 30000 projects. If you need a personal tour round these projects or have one for our open source catalogue, please mail chris at wcbn007@easynet.co.uk <http://dv6e.eeryu.com/The-Peoples-Economics----plot-ABCD>
