

translation - Google News

British show lost in translation - Lawrence Journal World

British show lost in translationLawrence Journal World, KS - 4 hours agoBy Kevin McDonough. Jennifer Saunders and Joanna Lumley of "Absolutely Fabulous" fame team up again in "Clatterford" (8 pm, BBC America). ...

http://news.google.co.uk/news/url?sa=T&ct=uk/0-0&fd=R&url=http://www2.ljworld.com/news/2007/mar/09/british_show_lost_translation/%3Fliving&cid=0&ei=Q3PxRcG1HMemsgG10onuCQ

Some China lawmakers get lost in translation - Reuters India

Some China lawmakers get lost in translationReuters India, India - 7 hours ago... and mostly live in the remote rural areas, so there is a lot of work for us," said Huang Fufang, head of the Zhuang translation group.

...
http://news.google.co.uk/news/url?sa=T&ct=uk/2-0&fd=R&url=http://in.today.reuters.com/news/newsArticle.aspx%3Ftype%3DentertainmentNews%26storyID%3D2007-03-09T124726Z_01_NOOTR_RTRJONC_0_India-290411-1.xml%26archived%3DFalse&cid=1114294781&ei=Q3PxRcG1HMemsgG10onuCQ

Scapegoating Scooter Libby Succeeding - WEBCommentary

Scapegoating Scooter Libby SucceedingWEBCommentary - 9 hours agoTranslation: "Coming in with a verdict quickly would not have looked good and I'd have had less to put in my upcoming book." ...

<http://news.google.co.uk/news/url?sa=T&ct=uk/8-0&fd=R&url=http://www.webcommentary.com/asp/ShowArticle.asp%3Fid%3Dgaynorm%26date%3D070309&cid=1114279359&ei=Q3PxRcG1HMemsgG10onuCQ>

Bush Iraq policy lost in translation? - China Post

Atlantic Free PressBush Iraq policy lost in translation?China Post, Taiwan - 12 hours agoBut it may all get lost in translation on his trip, widely seen as an attempt to counter a rising tide of anti-American sentiment in the region led by ...Commentary: A chastened Ahmadinejad? World Peace Herald

<http://news.google.co.uk/news/url?sa=T&ct=uk/3-0&fd=R&url=http://www.chinapost.com.tw/editorial/detail.asp%3FID%3D104220%26GRP%3Di&cid=1114281693&ei=Q3PxRcG1HMemsgG10onuCQ>

Mangalore: Corporation Bank holds translation training programme - Mangalorean.com

Mangalore: Corporation Bank holds translation training programmeMangalorean.com, India - 14 hours agoMangalore, March 9: A five-day long translation training programme is being held by Central Translation Bureau (Bangalore centre), Union Official Language ...

<http://news.google.co.uk/news/url?sa=T&ct=uk/1-0&fd=R&url=http://mangalorean.com/news.php%3Fnewstype%3Dlocal%26newsid%3D40210&cid=0&ei=Q3PxRcG1HMemsgG10onuCQ>

Lost in translation: Simple fairness - Atlanta Journal Constitution (subscription)

Lost in translation: Simple fairnessAtlanta Journal Constitution (subscription), GA - 15 hours agoDid you have trouble translating the hypothetical government notice in the box above on the left? If so, it probably helped to have the English version ...

<http://news.google.co.uk/news/url?sa=T&ct=uk/6-0&fd=R&url=http://www.ajc.com/opinion/content/opinion/stories/2007/03/08/0309english.html&cid=0&ei=Q3PxRcG1HMemsgG10onuCQ>

Lionbridge Freeway Translation Management Takes Top Spot in Common ... - SYS-CON Media

Lionbridge Freeway Translation Management Takes Top Spot in Common ...SYS-CON Media, NJ - 21 hours agoThe report, titled "Translation Management System Scorecards," ranked the top translation software solutions available across numerous categories to ...Lionbridge Freeway Translation Management Takes Top Spot in Common ... Earthtimes.orgNew Analyst Report by Research Firm Common Sense Advisory ... PR Web (press release)

<http://news.google.co.uk/news/url?sa=T&ct=uk/4-0&fd=R&url=http://www.sys-con.com/read/346736.htm&cid=1114213086&ei=Q3PxRcG1HMemsgG10onuCQ>

One-Button Translation - Atlantic Online

Atlantic OnlineOne-Button TranslationAtlantic Online - 22 hours agoThat is where the latest versions of Internet-based translation tools come in. Two well-known products are Babel Fish, which is now owned by Yahoo, ...

<http://news.google.co.uk/news/url?sa=T&ct=uk/5-0&fd=R&url=http://www.theatlantic.com/doc/200704/fallows-translators&cid=1114273776&ei=Q3PxRcG1HMMsgG10onuCQ>

Kabuki actors in Paris confident art won't get lost in translation - Mainichi Daily News

Kabuki actors in Paris confident art won't get lost in translationMainichi Daily News, Japan - 7 Mar 2007Kabuki star Ebizo Ichikawa is convinced Parisians won't have any problem understanding the emotional drama of Japan's traditional theater that he says goes ...

<http://news.google.co.uk/news/url?sa=T&ct=uk/9-0&fd=R&url=http://mdn.mainichi-msn.co.jp/entertainment/news/20070308p2a00m0et012000c.html&cid=1114256216&ei=Q3PxRcG1HMMsgG10onuCQ>

Israel: The full translation of 'Push the button' - esctoday.com esctoday.comIsrael: The full translation of 'Push the button'esctoday.com, Netherlands - 7 Mar 2007In order to show that there is no hidden theme in the song, we have been presented with a full English literal translation of the song in English.

<http://news.google.co.uk/news/url?sa=T&ct=uk/7-0&fd=R&url=http://www.esctoday.com/news/read/7901&cid=1114036515&ei=Q3PxRcG1HMMsgG10onuCQ>

Google Blog Search: translation

Lost in Translation

AS returned to the land of the rising earthquake today. He was still experiencing culture shock as of last week, when we went to PJ Cooke's, an American diner type place. He just flew back from Miami, and was having a little trouble ...

<http://www.triscribe.com/wp/archives/1295>

Java to CF translation

I am working on a small page for our intranet, printing out a complete history of a repository history. I have been taking some leaves out of CFDIFF (Thanks to Rick Osborne for doing lots of the hard yards!) and rolling my own bits. ...

<http://www.houseoffusion.com/groups/CF-Talk/message.cfm/messageid:272123>

Java to CF translation

Duncan, This is off the top of my head, but you would be best to do it this way, and remember cfdump is your friend here too. for (Iterator entries = logEntries.iterator(); entries.hasNext() ...

<http://www.houseoffusion.com/groups/CF-Talk/message.cfm/messageid:272125>

Lost in translation...

remember these girls? Maybe not as our memories are short, and images get blurred or overtaken by others ones, particularly when the issue is not directly related to our lives. Let me refresh your memories. these little girls are some ...

<http://projectwhy.blogspot.com/2007/03/lost-in-translation.html>

Rough "Translation"?

An actor was just fired from Manhattan Theatre Club's production of "Translations" for "harsh physical contact" with his leading lady. This is the Irish actor Michael Fitzgerald's Broadway debut. His part, Doalty, is being filled in by ...

<http://playgoer.blogspot.com/2007/03/rough-translation.html>

Translation, Please?

I love BoingBoing, but occasionally it gives me indigestion:.. my own personal thoughts on postmodernism concerns the fact that it is inches away from finally bridging the gap between western analytical thought and romanticism. ...

<http://www.links.org/?p=203>

3D Berlin - English translation

English Translation of Press Release [<http://www.3dgeo.de/berlin3d-googleearth.aspx>] Berlin is the first city worldwide with its 3D model on the Internet to be seen in Google Earth. LandXplorer-Technology by the company 3D Geo GmbH ...

<http://geovisualisation.com/WordPress/?p=817>

Vocabulary & Translation Help: RE: Co mĀjm

scrimshaw wrote:.. MusĀ-m to dĀlat aĀ¼ pĀĀjĀdou, ale jakmile odtud odejdou, uĀ¼ to dĀlat nebudu. NeplatĀ- mi (za to) dost [mince] penĀz. Mince = coins - can't be used instead of "penĀ-ze". OK, sometimes yes. "PotĀeboval bych nĀjakĀ mince ...

<http://www.myczechrepublic.com/boards/viewtopic.php?p=31401#31401>

Suggest a better translation

Still, translation is a very hard problem, and we know that when you use translate.google.com to read web pages in other languages, you sometimes encounter translations that we get wrong. We have a system that can learn to translate ...

<http://googleblog.blogspot.com/2007/03/suggest-better-translation.html>

Translation From PR-Speak to English of Selected Portions of ...

• Remember those squiggly lines when you tried copying a commercial VHS tape? You can thank us for that. • http://daringfireball.net/2007/02/macrovision_translation

search

German Language

German Language

English translations of notable German-language authors/scholars (among them Moritz, Christian Wolff, Lessing, Goethe, Schiller, Klopstock); Reference works of the time (language dictionaries, encyclopedia, history of Europe) â€

German Language Keywords: german language,internet,social,news,entertainment,search,onlineâ€

Â

Â

<http://mainstreamnews.just4blogging.com/index.php/2007/03/09/german-language-2/>

Early Days 4 - Autism and data collection [translation - ammunition]

I have a tendency to exaggerate. I think itâ€™s the Irish genes, or maybe just our version of the Irish genes. Everything is â€the most, the best, the superlative,â€™ or it is â€the pits, most dire and worst,â€™ with not a lot of grey in between. As a result of this trait, when we first sought out expert help, I could tell that my version of events was open to question. Because youâ€™re involved in the situation, it is difficult to be objective, especially since quite often, you are also that catalyst that sparks the meltdown in the first place. I would sit in the experts office, with my two angelic boys on the floor, whilst I moaned [in code] about the meltdowns. They provided me with helpful strategies, all of which I had already tried and failed at abysmally. I could tell that my status as subjective, over protective and involved mum, was part of the problem. They just didnâ€™t really take me seriously, as evidenced and reinforced by my perfect, if disengaged children. Any text book that you read on the subject of autism [especially ABA ones] advises that if you want to bring about â€improvementsâ€™ then first of all you need a â€baselineâ€™ from which to measure change. With this in mind, I laboured long and hard to try and come up with a workable system. I went for the lowest common denominator. I would pick a random hour of the day, every day, and count the number of meltdowns that they had, as well as the intensity, duration and recovery time. One form, one pencil and a few to boxes to tick. [translation = check] How hard could it be?

Well, much harder than I thought, of course, but over the following six weeks, I accumulated â€data.â€™ It may not have been â€hardâ€™ data and was subject to a mass of flaws, but it was good enough for my purposes. I was not exaggerating, ergo my sanity was still within my grasp.

With my slips of paper in my hot little hand, I was then able to tackle the ABA guru. His initial scepticism dispersed. He had more tactics, as I knew he would, some old ones that were worth trying again, as well as a couple of new ones that I hadnâ€™t come across before.

The meltdown crisis phase wasnâ€™t over, but I felt more in control knowing that â€things could only get better,â€™ as well as being in possession of another couple of techniques. In times of trouble, we do tend to percolate back to this base point, when the words disappear and frustrations reach their zenith, but there are always new tactics coming along, they are always growing and I know that weâ€™re on the up.

If you like what you read, send it to someone in â€need.â€™

Content from: Whitterer on Autism

<http://hh324.uutou.com/Early-Days-4-Autism-and-data-collection-translation-ammunition>

7 Tips - Coping mechanisms for parents of children who have just been diagnosed with autism

1. Make sure that you are alone. Scream as loudly as your lungs permit, for as long as you are able. Cry until you are incoherent. Ensure that you have an adequate supply of tissues. [translation = several catering sized boxes of Kleenex]
2. Take a damp cloth and wipe your face until your breathing returns to approximately normal. [translation = your regular breathing rate]
3. Visit or phone a true pal [translation = friend] and/ or relative [translation = family member] and talk. Advise them that you are likely to blub [translation = weep] and that they do not need to respond merely listen.

4. Start reading the paperwork that the professional who diagnosed your child gave you. N.B. If the pile of paper is too heavy to carry skip to the "recommendations" page. N.B.B. make sure that you have a medical dictionary with a large font size at your elbow for reference.
5. If you find that your brain has shriveled to the size of a pea and that you are incapable of taking in technical information, push the paper work to one side and go and do your favourite thing instead. If you discover that your favourite thing is not working, do not worry, normal service will be resumed in the future.
6. I tell you truly that things will improve and that you CAN do this.
7. Seek out aforementioned child/[ren], the same child/[ren] who now owns a new label. Hug and kiss that same child/[ren] with or without labels.

If you like what you read, send it to someone in "need."

Content from: Whitterer on Autism

<http://hh312.uutou.com/7-Tips-Coping-mechanisms-for-parents-of-children-who-have-just-been-diagnosed-with-autism>

Citizens Can Do Better!

In various community meetings over the last couple of weeks, some members of the New Orleans Police Department brass have made occasional, passing reference to the city's new city crime maps, accessible either through the City of NO Web site or NOPD.com. Actually navigating to the crime maps, however, requires quite a bit of guesswork and several clicks. Furthermore, given the lack of publicity they're providing the new crime mapping resource, and after seeing the lack of meaningful information in the actual product, citizens might well wonder if the New Orleans Police Department really wants citizens to know about crime in their neighborhoods?

The NOPD continues to host the old static JPEG maps in its sidebar "NOPD Crime Maps" link, so you won't find the new crime maps there. Note, as well, that the JPEG maps were updated on 1/26/07 " now almost two weeks ago. Does the NOPD not want citizens to find the new crime mapping Web site? Why not update the sidebar link so it takes users to the new maps? I suspect that, more than anything, the only reason why the sidebar link sends users to the old maps is because there's no one at the NOPD who knows how, or who's authorized, to update the hyperlink. There's another story in there about why the NOPD can't attract competent civilian technical support staff.

So how can citizens access the NOPD crime maps? You're about to see how. First, you might want to freshen that cup of coffee, sit down, take a deep breath, and relax " prepare yourself to go through a mental roughride.

First of all, you have to understand that there's no direct link to the new NOPD crime maps. Instead, the city has paid an outside contractor to create a single portal for all mapping services " everything from property information, to permits, to drainage basin repairs, to day care centers, is accessible in a single Web page. It would be a noble and useful concept if the information provided wasn't so completely meaningless.

I just looked up a street service cut map and was returned a sea of blue dots inside a 2-mile-wide map, and a bunch of records below the map with no reference to the map other than a cross street address, and a status " either "completed" or "backfilled". Moreover, the map simply doesn't make any sense. Looking at the legend, the "completed" icon is supposed to be a beige square; the "backfilled" icon is supposed to be a red square. There's no icon listed in the legend for a big fat blue circle. There is, however, an indication that polygons shaded blue are water areas. Is the map telling use that there are thousands of water breaks? I think not " it's simply a poorly-developed product.

It's interesting to note that there are no tools for navigating around the map " e.g., pan, zoom in, zoom out " and although the initial address search returns a lot address map at a comprehensible scale, all of the other maps are at such a small scale that it renders the maps meaningless. Users can change the search radius, but that doesn't change the map scale, it just reduces the size of the circle, and the number of records returned and mapped.

This would be a mediocre start for the government, but the site wasn't developed by the technologically-impaired city staff, but was instead developed by a private contractor. I think it's fair to expect a better product from the private sector. Taxpayers certainly pay more for the expertise (ahem! they might like to know how much the contractor has paid in campaign contributions to Mayor Ray Nagin). The Web site is like getting the newspaper delivered to your doorstep, but it's written in Swahili, and you don't have a translation dictionary. Sure, the information's being delivered, but you can't make any sense of it.

Here, then, are the steps required to get to a crime map of your neighborhood:

Log on to the City of NO Web site and navigate to the NOPD Web site using the "Departments and Agencies" drop-down box in the left hand sidebar. Alternatively, log on to NOPD.com.

Once on the NOPD Web site, scroll almost to the bottom of the page. Look for the blue flag with yellow fleur de lis. Just below the flag graphic, there's a hyperlinked sentence which reads, "Click this link to view real-time crime statistics and other information in your area by typing an address." The message is more than just a little deceiving, as you'll soon discover, because the crime page is anything but "real-time" or "statistical."

Upon clicking the hyperlink and then acknowledging a pop-up disclaimer window, you should find yourself on an address search page featuring a clunky interface which requires that the user enter separately the various elements of an address, and it doesn't allow any intersections or free-form address entry with intelligent fuzzy matching like Google maps allows.

For the purposes of this exercise, I'll choose 1725 Tulane Avenue, the site of the Wednesday four-alarm fire at the Economy Lodge.

Here's the result:

The first thing you might notice is that all of the icons look exactly the same. There's no differentiation to represent different crime types. The scale of the map makes it difficult to discern street names. There's also a long list of thefts listed in the records displayed below the map. It isn't until scrolling to the third page that more serious crimes can be found. The records are stale " at least two-weeks old. Again, changing the search radius from 1 mile to 0.1 mile doesn't change the map scale; it just reduces the size of the search radius circle, and the number of records returned. There's no logical sort order to the records, although there is a sort button at the top of only two fields displayed " crime type and date " but there's no way, for example, to sort all robberies by date. It's critical to note the gross oversight " or negligence " in displaying only five crime categories: assault, auto theft, burglary, robbery, theft. Fortunately, we live in a city where (at least according to the the NOPD) there's no murder! Shootings? Rapes? How would we know that a particular pair of juveniles were recently terrorizing kids by trying to steal their bikes? How would we know that there's been a rash of shootings around a particular bar? Presumably, the shootings, rapes, other violent crimes (and perhaps even murder) are all aggregated in the "assault" category, but there's no documentation or legend to indicate that fact. This isn't much better than the older static JPEG maps. At least the older maps somewhat differentiated among crime types, and displayed more crime types. In fact, the new NOPD crime maps are still just dumb JPEG images. They aren't at all interactive. It's ten-year-old technology in an interactive Web 2.0 universe. Overall, the new NOPD crime mapping system is almost " almost " a completely meaningless product.

I applaud the city for trying, because the result only underscores the need to allow citizens to develop their own crime mapping and reporting services in an open access, open source, team development environment. Why reward contractors (who pay dividends to politicians) when citizens can do a better?! Of course, the answer is revealed in the question. Let the market decide who can provide the best reporting and mapping services. Make the crime data available to any responsible party who wishes to develop services for the community. Ultimately, I'm confident that the best approach will prove to be one where the large pool of talented volunteers around New Orleans develop the solutions that work best for their neighborhoods. In an open source environment, better solutions can be developed on the achievements of others. Groups have already coalesced around this idea, pressed on by a broken criminal justice system which isn't â€œgetting itâ€• " that we want more information! No one knows better than we do how information saves lives!

The criminal justice system across the board has left citizens no reason to trust that theyâ€™re doing the right thing. Itâ€™s time for a radical change. Citizens are always being told that the criminal justice system canâ€™t solve the crime problem without citizen participation. Itâ€™s time for the criminal justice system to ante up by listening to citizens who are demanding greater transparency. Letâ€™s find out where the crime hot spots are by requiring the NOPD to furnish open access to the raw 911 calls for service data. Letâ€™s find out where the problems really are in the criminal justice system by giving us open access to the Orleans Parish Criminal Sheriffâ€™s Office Docketmaster records. The obvious objections on privacy grounds can be eliminated by scrubbing specific victim information from the records and by averaging victim addresses. When citizens have the information they need to evaluate the safety of their own neighborhoods in a timely manner " not two weeks after criminals have left " the beleaguered NOPD will secure the aid of tens or hundreds of thousands of additional eyes on the watch for perpetrators. More importantly, they can be alerted to emerging dangers in their neighborhoods. When citizens understand better the particular weak links in the system of prosecuting offenders, they can make intelligent decisions about how to correct the system. Itâ€™s time for citizens to take a front-seat in driving the criminal justice system. The first key to unlocking the problems in that system is open access to data. The old ways of solving problems arenâ€™t working. It will be a difficult and painful process, especially for the public officials who are hiding their deficiencies behind information barriers. Those who donâ€™t answer the public call for open access to information are living in the past, which is exactly where we should leave them.

Citizens can do better! Public officials need to help us, or get out of the way!

<http://citizencrimewatch.org/blog/?p=3>

7 Tips - Coping mechanisms for parents of children who have just been diagnosed with autism

1. Make sure that you are alone. Scream as loudly as your lungs permit, for as long as you are able. Cry until you are incoherent. Ensure that you have an adequate supply of tissues. [translation = several catering sized boxes of Kleenex]
2. Take a damp cloth and wipe your face until your breathing returns to approximately normal. [translation = your regular breathing rate]
3. Visit or phone a true pal [translation = friend] and/ or relative [translation = family member] and talk. Advise them that you are likely to blub [translation = weep] and that they do not need to respond merely listen.
4. Start reading the paperwork that the professional who diagnosed your child gave you. N.B. If the pile of paper is too heavy to carry skip to the ?recommendations? page. N.B,B. make sure that you have a medical dictionary with a large font size at your elbow for reference.
5. If you find that your brain has shriveled to the size of a pea and that you are incapable of taking in technical information, push the paper work to one side and go and do your favourite thing instead. If you discover that your favourite thing is not working, do not worry, normal service will be resumed in the future.
6. I tell you truly that things will improve and that you CAN do this.
7. Seek out aforementioned child/[ren], the same child/[ren] who now owns a new label. Hug and kiss that same child/[ren] with or without labels.

If you like what you read, send it to someone in â€˜need.â€™

Content from: Whitterer on Autism

<http://hh367.uutou.com/7-Tips-Coping-mechanisms-for-parents-of-children-who-have-just-been-diagnosed-with-autism>

french dictionary and international phonetic alphabet Description: Atlas Dictionary Encyclopedia
french dictionary and international phonetic alphabet Description: Atlas Dictionary Encyclopedia Geography

History Music Quote Translation Zip HomeNatural well. The International Phonetic Alphabet was originally developed by British and French cell phone antenna busters Description: Wholesale 50 Cell Phones Accessory Safety Wave Busters. C 11.86 2d 21h 05m. 10 Cell Phone Antenna Boosters2nd GENERATION tdma cellular telephone sales Description: The U.S. Commercial Service offers valuable assistance to help U.S. business export goods and services to markets worldwide. Cellular Telephone Transmission Equipment. Product Description SDT is reselling used and overstocked 850 Mhz TDMA cellular Seeking inquiries from potential buyers for direct sales ATx cordless phones manual Description: you hours of tedious manual labor for the fraction of free Plantronics M214C headset for cordless phones. This comfortable affordable 7.68 in. Micro ATX 2 DIMMs w DDR 400 Lancement de la tlfonie IP Bell Canada Description: in phonic wireless phones free Description: JVC XVN44SL Regionfree DVD player with PAL to NTSC Converter. Using a regionfree gives worldwide playback of all DVD discs. Specifications. Regionfree PAL NTSC playback regions 16 Resume function. 3DPhonic for virtual surround sound Rent a Satellite Phones. International Calling. A1 Wireless cordless phones that work with wireless internet Description: With Pillowtop Mattresses And Welllit Desks And Work Areas. All 178 Guestrooms Offer Complimentary Wireless Internet Access Cordless Phones With Voicemail Satellite Television Bathrobes And pacific bell directory san gabriel valley overview Description: GlobalSecurity.org is the leading source for reliable WMD news and WMD information directed by John Pike Economic Information Directory for the San Francisco Bay 1981 œThe Livermore Valley California Sequence of January A Cultural Resources Overview and Historic Preservation delta com calling cards Description: Iconnecthere offers great rates on Internet phone service. We can save you money with Broadband Phone PC to Phone and Virtual Calling Card calls. Caller ID 3Way Calling Call Forwarding Call Waiting Speed verizon wireless phones only no plan Description: Verizon Wireless) now phones do that at one point. Although there is no picture when someone calls it shows their name on the front of the phone. The only satellite phone rental vancouver BC Description: From Wikitravel. Vancouver sea and skyscrapers. Vancouver is the largest city in Western Canada located at the southwestern corner of the coastal province of British Columbia. <http://www.city.vancouver.bc.ca/engsvctransportcycling> UCFV maintains several satellite campuses including Abbotsford Chilliwack code for phone calls in Vancouver and the satellite phone NH Description: Communications Drive. Laconia NH 03246. Phone Toll 9325837 Independent Living Foundation P.O. Box 895. NH 03580. Phone 823 bell canada alert 90 Description: DC Powered. Telephone Alert wStrobe 129.00 phone line and flashes to alert you to incoming calls 00 TELEHORN 1791B with Bell cell phone accessories 6102 nokia Description: Search find and buy XS Hydrofoam Pouch for Nokia 6101 6102 Cell Phone and other Office amp Business products from a variety of merchants via the OneCart solution at SHOP.COM. Office amp Business Cell Phones amp Accessories Cell Phone Cases amp Clips Leather CasesNokia6101 6102XS Neoprene Pouch for Nokia 6101 6102 Cell monitoring 5 8 cordless phones Description: 8 uninspiring cordless phones and consumer communications devices chances are thereâ€™s a Uniden product thatâ€™s already making things more convenient in and around your home.PRODUCT FEATURES 5 cheap calling cards from canada to Australia cellular Description: Cheapest International Phone Cards Cheapest International Calling Cards Prepaid Calling Cards from UnionTelecard Phone Cards and Calling Cards from Union Telecard. Clean! USA and Canada access. Stable Rates Armenia ArmeniaYerevan Aruba Australia Austria Azerbaijan Bahamas Bahrain Bangladesh Noggin Pacific Bell Description: Cheryl Gotthelf VP Education and Public Affairs NOGGIN 1515 Broadway 4th Floor New York NY 10036 Ileana Winterhalter Director Pacific Bell 140 New Montgomery Room 2120 San Francisco wireless phones light only Description: I wireless a TMobile Affiliate is a provider of cellular service in Iowa and Illinois using Nokia LG and Motorola cell phones how to download ringtones with usb cable Description: Mobile community. Active discussion about all makes and carriers of cell phones wallpaper games and ringtones. Nokia alt.cellular.nokia alt.cellular.nokia.ringtones LG Motorola alt.cellular.motorola Sony Ericsson alt - <http://phonestore.be/updates/?p=2660>

Interview with Bryce Benjamin, CEO of Language Weaver

Bryce Benjamin is the CEO of Language Weaver (www.languageweaver.com), a Marina Del Rey-based firm that develops automated language translation software.... (more)

http://www.socaltech.com/interview_with_bryce_benjamin,_ceo_of_language_weaver/s-0007925.html

Babinet Secures $6.5 Million For MXP4

Gilles Babinet, who founded Musiwave and most recently mobile video start-up Eyeka, has secured $6.5 million in funding for his new start-up MXP4, reports Mobile Entertainment. The funding was from Sofinnova Partners and Ventech and will be used to reinforce the team and develop the technical platform.

Although Babinet has a history of mobile stuff, this appears to be focused more generally on digital music, and will be "a new digital audio standard that allows artists, professionals and listeners to add an interactive, non-linear dimension to their music". I'm not entirely sure what that is, but the Babelfish translation of the website leads me to think it means the songs are different everytime you listen to them, "an always different and always harmonious interpretation" like a live concert.

Related:

--Musiwave Founder Leaves After Acquisition; Starts New Company; Raises $5 Million

--Openwave's Acquisition of MusiWave: The Gory Details

<http://www.paidcontent.org/entry/419-babinet-secures-65-million-for-mxp4/#When:13:16:00Z>

Tickle Tests Night

WHICH HERO ARE YOU?

Surprise surprise! I am Hiro Nakamura, the Japanese misfit who bends time and space. COOL! Imagine the ability to stop time when I dunno how to answer an exam question then be able to check the reference book. MUAHAHAHA!

"Such a dreamer! Even when you're stuck in a rut, you still reach for the stars. Happy-go-lucky and trusting you may be, but silly you're not " you've definitely got a practical side. And no matter what the future holds for you, we know you'll have fun along the way!"

Anyways, just watch HEROES.

WHO IS YOUR CELEBRITY MATCH?

In other related personality tests, my celebrity match is Scarlett Johanssen. I definitely have no qualms about that.

"That's right, steamy Scarlett Johanssen is your match point!

Smart and sophisticated, you need a soulmate who's going to challenge you and keep you on your toes.

Only someone with brains and beauty can be your true match. Lucky for you, the lady who always wins awards for "Sexiest Woman Alive" has plenty of both to spare. From dinner dates in LA to hanging out in New York City, you'll be sure to have a heavenly time. Just make sure nothing gets lost in translation!"

WHICH IDOL ARE YOU?

"Of course you're out to win the big event! You've got a competitive spirit and a drive to succeed that's gonna take you to the top in whatever you do. But that doesn't mean that you don't pay close attention to the people around you. Sure, they're competitors, but they're also friends and colleagues. And you, more than anyone, recognize that everything you do and everyone you meet provides a chance to learn and grow. You're a generous and upbeat spirit who expects the best from yourself and tries to find the best in others. Quick with a helping hand, your positive energy is what connects you with people " in or out of the spotlight."

I've got only one thing to say; I am so glad Antonella is out. But why Sabrina? She is such a good singer. Well, America did vote Bush in twice, that's my friend's theory.

And there goes an hour of my time. SSWEETTTTT!

<http://boonken.wordpress.com/2007/03/09/tickle-tests-night/>

Automated Google Translation

I set out today to start working on getting the categories on the site working. Right now they are just pretty pictures and don't link anywhere. If you have been following this blog category you know that I want people in any language to be able to use my site. Same goes for the categories. I'll use a separate post to describe the idea for the category design.

The first thing I wanted to do, though, was translate all the category names. Two days ago, I translated most of the homepage by hand, copying and pasting from Google Translate to my backend script (described before) that inserts the translated text into the database. The prospect of doing that again 100+ times was not fun, so I wrote a script to do it. This post will present the code for that script so that you can do it even quicker than I did.

Before I continue, I just want to say that this script probably violates the Google Terms of Service (I didn't check though). However, the way it is written, it pretends it is a browser and acts like a browser in speed so I don't think it really should. That is, it is a responsible script and will not use any more resources than if I did it myself by hand. You'll see what I mean in a second. Here is the basic script in Perl (mine is a bit longer because it has the database insert stuff).

```
use LWP::UserAgent;
use HTTP::Request::Common;
use utf8;
my $target="First Internet Resource";
my $text = "Internet addresses";
my @lang = ('ar','en','ja','de','fr','it','zh','ko','pt','ru','es');
my $ua = new LWP::UserAgent;
$ua->agent("Mozilla/4.0 (compatible; MSIE 6.0; Windows 98)"); foreach my $language (@lang) {
    my $response = $ua->request(POST "http://translate.google.com/translate_t.html?hl=en,ie=UTF8,langpair=en|$language,text=>$text");
    my ($tmp,$translation) = $response->content =~ /(.*?) /;
    sleep(5);
}
```

That's it. All it does is loop through the languages you want and requests a translation from Google. The sleep(5) part waits 5 seconds between translations as I would be doing if I were copying and pasting the results.

<http://blog.ivegotafang.com/2007/03/09/automated-google-translation/>

Intraneews - Daily News Site for Linguists

Fate of Afghan interpreters unknown

Kabul, Afghanistan (AsiaNews): Italian journalist Daniele Mastrogiacomo and his two Afghan interpreters run great risks after being captured by Taliban forces in southern Helmand province on suspicion of spying for the British. In Kabul military sources say that if they are tried and found guilty as the abductors claim, there is no hope for them. Still, everyone is waiting for an official confirmation.

For more information, please visit:

www.asianews.it/index.php?l=en&art=8670&size=A

http://intraneews.intra.net/cgi-bin/news_email.cgi?action=aff_art&art_id=18784

The translation issue in Bengali

Calcutta, India (Telegraph): Unlike Japan and China, which translate every single research paper and specialized monograph in science, technology and medicine into English, our academies and research institutes do nothing of the kind. That is why it is only possible to pick up a fragmentary knowledge of any subject in the regional languages. Even students studying different subjects in Bengali, the richest among vernacular languages, have to supplement their meagre literature with English language books to gain some proficiency in the subject. [â€¦] If Japan and China, that do not have the same knowledge of English as we do, can do it, why canâ€™t we?

For more information, please visit:

www.telegraphindia.com/1070309/asp/opinion/story_7484682.asp

http://intraneews.intra.net/cgi-bin/news_email.cgi?action=aff_art&art_id=18783

Secular Islam Summit promotes translation as peacekeeper

Florida, USA (WDR): The statement of the Secular Islam Summit held in Florida includes the following: "We enjoin academics and thinkers everywhere to embark on a fearless examination of the origins and sources of Islam, and to promulgate the ideals of free scientific and spiritual inquiry through cross-cultural translation, publishing, and the mass media."

For more information, please visit:

worlddefensereview.com/phares030807.shtml

http://intraneews.intra.net/cgi-bin/news_email.cgi?action=aff_art&art_id=18782

It's a woman's world

Auckland, New Zealand (Franchise): What do a Hungarian Translator, a Serbian Economist and a German Physician have in common? Although from very different backgrounds, all three women have beat the odds and built successful businesses, while at the same time helping other women achieve their own dreams, using the Helen Doron Early English model.

For more information, please visit:

www.franchisewire.com/article.php?id=1375

http://intraneews.intra.net/cgi-bin/news_email.cgi?action=aff_art&art_id=18781

A short history of Buddhist translation

Massachusetts, USA (Sophian): Buddhism's journey to Tibet was a long one. Between the years 173 and 293 A.D. monks from neighboring countries came to Tibet to disseminate Buddhist teachings from India. However, it was not until the beginning of the 20th century that Tibetan Buddhism was finally widely understood. The texts originally brought to Tibet were written in Sanskrit, and it took many years for the kings of Tibet to begin the translations of these religious texts into Tibetan. Beginning with the reign of King Soytsen Ganpo from 616 to 650, the first texts were translated by Thonmi Sanbhota. Under his rule enough texts were translated to begin to build a foundation for Buddha Dharma in Tibet.

For more information, please visit:

www.smithsophian.com/home/news/2007/03/08/Features/Lecture.Series.Continues.With.Topic.Of.Buddhism-2765451.shtml

http://intranews.intra.net/cgi-bin/news_email.cgi?action=aff_art&art_id=18780

Alice in Russia

Moscow, Russia (M Times): Earlier this year, the world celebrated the 175th anniversary of the birth of Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, better known under his pen name, Lewis Carroll. Virtually anyone who loves books can tell you that Carroll is the author of "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland," a masterpiece of children's literature that has been translated into more than 100 languages, including Russian. But few people know the story of how "Alice" appeared in Russia -- a fantastic tale with several twists and turns that are almost as absurd as the book itself.

For more information, please visit:

www.themoscowtimes.com/stories/2007/03/09/101.html

http://intranews.intra.net/cgi-bin/news_email.cgi?action=aff_art&art_id=18779

Lionbridge top in Common Sense Advisory survey

Massachusetts, USA (PRNewswire-FirstCall): Lionbridge Technologies, Inc. today announced that Freeway(TM), its free, web-based translation management platform, earned a top score in the comprehensive ranking of translation management systems by independent research firm Common Sense Advisory. The report, titled "Translation Management System Scorecards," ranked the top translation software solutions available across numerous categories to determine completeness of offering. Freeway scored highly in all areas and matched the highest composite score among all system scorecards.

For more information, please visit:

www.prnewswire.com/cgi-bin/stories.pl?ACCT=104&STORY=/www/story/03-08-2007/0004542261&EDATE

http://intranews.intra.net/cgi-bin/news_email.cgi?action=aff_art&art_id=18778

Bias in Google spell checking software

On The Web (SER): Google's spell checking software automatically looks at your query and checks to see if you are using the most common version of a word's spelling. If it calculates that you're likely to generate more relevant search results with an alternative spelling, it will ask "Did you mean: (more common spelling)?". Clicking on the suggested spelling will launch a Google search for that term. Because Google's spell check is based on occurrences of all words on the Internet, it is able to suggest common spellings for proper nouns (names and places) that might not appear in a standard spell check program or dictionary.

For more information, please visit:

www.seroundtable.com/archives/012636.html

http://intranews.intra.net/cgi-bin/news_email.cgi?action=aff_art&art_id=18777
